

Accreditation Actions of the AVMA Council on Education Fall 2014

The AVMA Council on Education (COE) is recognized by the United States Department of Education as the accrediting agency for colleges and schools of veterinary medicine in the US. A full description of the protocol used during review of the following evaluations can be found in the COE's March 2014 Policies and Procedures manual (<https://www.avma.org/ProfessionalDevelopment/Education/Accreditation/Colleges/Pages/coe-pp.aspx>)

The Council took the following actions during its September 28-30, 2014 meeting.

Accredited is a classification granted to a college that has no deficiencies in any of the Standards and is granted for a period of up to seven years. A college with one or more minor deficiencies that have minimal or no effect on student learning or safety, that can be reasonably be addressed in one year, are Accredited with minor deficiencies. Colleges submit annual interim reports, more frequently if minor deficiencies are present, to monitor continued compliance with the Standards of Accreditation

Based on evaluations of comprehensive site visits that took place in spring 2014:

University College Dublin School of Veterinary Medicine, Dublin, Ireland

Granted Accredited status for a period not to exceed seven (7) years.

Oregon State University College of Veterinary Medicine, Corvallis, Oregon

Granted Accredited status for a period not to exceed seven (7) years.

North Carolina State University College of Veterinary Medicine, Raleigh, North Carolina

Granted Accredited status for a period not to exceed seven (7) years.

University of Minnesota College of Veterinary Medicine, St. Paul, Minnesota

Granted Accredited status for a period not to exceed seven (7) years.

Massey University Institute of Veterinary, Animal and Biomedical Sciences, Palmerston North, New Zealand

Granted Accredited status for a period not to exceed seven (7) years.

Additionally annual interim reports were reviewed by the COE and granted accreditation status as follows:

University of Melbourne Faculty of Veterinary Science, Werribee, Victoria, Australia

Granted continued Accredited status

Murdoch University School of Veterinary and Biomedical Sciences, Murdoch Western Australia

Granted continued Accredited status

The COE reviewed progress reports to monitor progress in correcting deficiencies and granted accreditation status as follows:

Auburn University College of Veterinary Medicine, Auburn, Alabama

Granted Accredited status for remainder of 7-year accreditation cycle

University of Glasgow School of Veterinary Medicine

Granted continued Accredited status

Universite de Montréal Faculté de médecine vétérinaire

Granted continued Accredited status

Oklahoma State University Center for Veterinary Health Sciences

Granted continued Accredited status

University of Prince Edward Island, Atlantic Veterinary College

Granted continued Accredited status

Purdue University School of Veterinary Medicine

Granted continued Accredited status

Provisional Accreditation is granted to a developing program with a current Letter of Reasonable Assurance in the United States or Canada following admittance of the initial class and that has provided evidence to the Council that assures future compliance with the Standards. Provisional Accreditation may be granted for no more than 5 years.

The Council took the following actions during its October 22, 2014 teleconference meeting.

Lincoln Memorial University College of Veterinary and Comparative Medicine

Granted Provisional Accreditation status

Midwestern University College of Veterinary Medicine

Granted Provisional Accreditation status