
Something to chew on

FACT: Investing in USDA's animal health, livestock production, animal products research and food safety programs impacts what you and your family eat every day.

FACT: A commitment to animal health and food safety is just that . . . an investment in the safety of America's food supply and global food security.

America's veterinarians strongly urge Congress to preserve funding for USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), Agriculture and Food Research Institute (AFRI), Agriculture Research Service (ARS), and Food Safety Inspection Service (FSIS).

Need more information? Contact Gina Luke at the American Veterinary Medical Association today.

202.289.3204

American Veterinary Medical Association

www.avma.org